

Robert Cikoja joined the Habitat Huronia team in February of 2016. Robert brought in a wealth of construction knowledge from the perspective of residential building as a General Manager, as a site supervisor, as a contractor and as an estimator over the past 15 years.

Robert is instrumental towards developing a local base of suppliers, trades and volunteers to bring a community culture and awareness while leading the charge that Habitat can impact the affordable housing need.

Robert didn't start his career in construction but rather was the branch manager of FedEx in Toronto for 6 years. Once the construction bug hit it was full steam ahead starting with being the General Manager and to eventually starting his own renovation company. Aside from construction, Roberts's interests include football, painting, reading and enjoying time with his two young boys.
